One scorching day, a man and his son were going to the market with their donkey. As they were walking by its side along the road, a merchant passed by and said, "You fools! Shouldn't you be riding on the donkey?"

After some thought, the man placed his son on the donkey and they went on their way. Soon, they passed by a group of men, one of whom said, "See that lazy youngster. His father has to walk while he rides!" 5

The father immediately ordered his son to get off the donkey and got on it himself. They had not gone far when they passed by two women. One of them said to the other, "Shame on that man! He rides while his poor son has to trudge along." 10

The man was frustrated. He pulled his son up and they both rode on the donkey. The donkey staggered along, almost unable to bear the weight. By this time, they were near the market. Passers-by began to jeer at them, "Shame on you for overloading the poor donkey!"

The man and his son got off and thought of what to do next. They cut down a pole and tied the donkey's feet to it. Then, they raised the pole with the donkey to their shoulders. The people at the market laughed on seeing this sight. In the meantime, one of the donkey's feet came loose. It kicked out and caused the boy to drop his end of the pole. During the struggle, the donkey fell over a bridge and drowned. 15

Finally, the father told his son, "This has taught us a lesson. Try satisfying all and you will end up not satisfying any." The son nodded his head in agreement.

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. Write your answers in complete sentences.

When I was in Primary One, my parents bought me a puppy. It was adorable and when its pink tongue licked my face, it was love at first sight.

We named our new pet Dusty. Soon, Dusty became my little sister's naptime pillow. Dusty would fall asleep on the rug and wait until my sister woke up. To keep me safe, it would walk me to school every day. It also checked the traffic before allowing me to cross the road to reach the school. Of the many wonderful memories we have had with Dusty, one memory definitely stood out.

5

Late one night, Dusty raced upstairs to my bedroom and started barking repeatedly. When I ignored it, it ran down the stairs to my parents' room and continued barking. Finally, it got Mother's attention. "What?" Mother snapped. Dusty whined in response. Thinking that the dog needed to go out to relieve itself, Mother relented and followed Dusty to the front door.

10

When Mother let Dusty out, it tore across the street. Then Mother realised what Dusty was trying to show her. The house across the street was on fire! Mother alerted the fire department immediately. Soon, fire trucks came speeding down the street. I was woken up by the loud sirens and came out to take a look. The firemen quickly put out the blaze and our neighbours were saved.

15

When people in the neighbourhood began thanking my mother, she refused to take credit for saving our neighbours. I rushed over to Dusty, put my arms around its neck and kissed it. "You are a hero!" I whispered into Dusty's ear. Dusty wagged its tail and licked my face.
